LEADING TRAVEL MANAGEMENT COMPANIES FORM GLOBAL JOINT VENTURE

Former Rosenbluth International Partners & Total Travel Management (TTM) Join Forces to Form Global Experts in Travel (GET)

Orlando, Fla. – Global Experts in Travel (GET), a single-branded global travel management joint venture with more than $1.8 billion in annual airline sales, was launched today at the National Business Travelers Association (NBTA) Convention and Trade Show. The announcement was made by Linda Garback, CEO of the new global joint venture.

GET combines the global expertise of several former Rosenbluth International Partners in Latin America and Asia-Pacific, Total Travel Management in North America, along with other leading global travel management companies. Negotiations with GET's European partners are in the final stages, with an expected announcement in the upcoming month.

“Corporate travel represents the second highest expense for Fortune 500 Corporations,” Garback said. “The formation of a single-branded global travel management company, which will standardize global travel processes, while truly reducing a corporation's T&E costs is now a viable option for corporate travel purchasers.”

Garback estimates that GET's combined technological resources and travel consultative expertise will potentially reduce a corporation's annual global travel expenditures by up to 30%.

“Corporations are seeking a streamlined means of managing their global travel expenditures and GET truly provides that solution, via the merging of several quality driven global travel management companies into one strategic thinking cohesive organization,” Garback said.

As part of GET's global travel management suite, they also announced the launching of “GET Connected-Stay Connected,” a multilingual Web-based global travel portal that will allow Corporations to create a secure, “one stop-shopping” on-line source, which has the capability of integrating multiple global online booking tools, consolidating global travel management reporting in “real time,” manage a corporation’s preferred vendor negotiation programs, as well as globally integrate a corporation’s groups and meetings. In addition, “GET Connected-Stay Connected,” offers a security suite that allows a corporation to track their travelers’ 24/7, regardless of where they are traveling in the world.

“Obviously, security has always been important, but today, it is more critical than ever before,” Garback said. “GET Connected-Stay Connected’s,” security package will allow corporations to easily identify, track, and assist their travelers in the event of an emergency, providing a much needed peace of mind, in the time of an emergency.”
